

Planning Studies

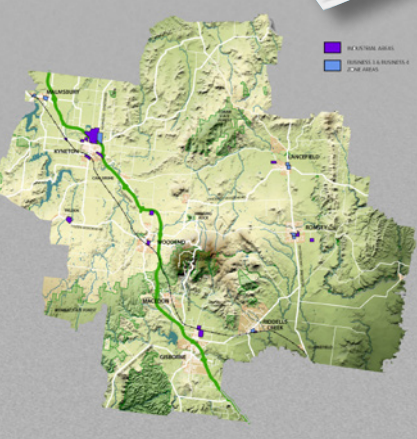

Tract offers skills and expertise to Government and the private sector in the preparation of planning studies.

These studies cover a broad range of issues, ranging from liveability assessments, research reports, land use analysis and policy assessment.

Essential to the success of these studies is our detailed understanding of their legislative, spatial and historical context, and of contemporary policy challenges.

This helps ensure that the reports are comprehensive, accurate and well considered.

We can draw on our in house skills in urban design and landscape architecture, together with our strong professional networks, to form comprehensive project teams, as required.
